The Gazette of Politics & Business Names Sharon Gubinsky, Audit Manager at SantosPostal, One of the Top Women Business Leaders in Maryland

After eight years of working as the Director of Operations for accounting firm Santos, Postal & Company, P.C., Sharon Gubinsky received the offer of her career—SantosPostal would support her while she went back to school to earn her CPA license. SantosPostal was hoping that Sharon would help strengthen their professional expertise, and she did just that. In the 13 years Sharon has worked for SantosPostal, they have tripled in size.

At SantosPostal, Sharon provides services for audits, taxes, consulting and forensic accounting with a concentration in the areas of medical, real estate, not for profit, government contracting, retail, hospitality and professional service industries. Prior to joining SantosPostal, Sharon worked in the private sector in finance for the construction/contracting, medical and hospitality industries.

Sharon is actively involved in community service and serves on the Board for AWSCPA's DC chapter as Treasurer. She is also affiliated with MACPA, AICPA, ACFE, ASWA, CREW and is a member of MCHS. Her article, published in the October 2009 edition of the ASWA Compass, tells the story of her journey to becoming a CPA.

Sharon is skilled in assisting women controlled entities and helping women develop leadership roles within their organizations. "Earning my certification later in life was challenging, to say the least. The experience gave me the skills and expertise to help other women achieve their career and financial goals."
